

Duke Re-Elected For Provincial Legislature

Heavy Inroad Made Into Social Credit Vote in Province—Tompkins Made Good Run as Independent

By about 300 votes Coleman made the major contribution to the re-election of E. O. Duke, ex-teacher of Canmore.

Pincher Creek and nearly all the rural polls gave a majority for Tompkins, the town of Pincher rolling up a fine majority for him. The vote in the Pass towns, particularly Coleman, was a disappointment to the Independent organization, as many who had intimated they would vote for Tompkins evidently voted for Social Credit, presumably having a lingering hope that some of the golden promises may yet come true.

Blairmore gave good support to Enoch Williams, he receiving more votes than Tompkins there, but in Coleman the mineworkers' vote did not reach 200 for the Labor candidate.

DOCTOR ADVISES MAN TO TAKE IT EASY AND HE'LL LIVE ON AND ON

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—Life begins at 40, they say, and it can last a lot longer than the usual 60 or 70, according to Dr. James L. Bibb, who declares that man, "the only mammal that doesn't fulfill his destiny as to longevity," should reach an average age of 126.

"We eat too much," Dr. Bibb told the Chattanooga Rotary. "We work too hard, worry too much, smoke and drink too much."

"We speed and we die." Handing his profession of medicine a verbal slap on the back for trebling in three brief centuries the life expectancy of an infant from 20 to 60 years, Dr. Bibb turned on an interrogative note: "But why stop here?"

"Surely we should have more intelligence than a dog who fulfills his destiny by living five times his growing age. If we were as successful, the average life of a human being should be 126 years."

BIGELOW, Mo.—An engagement which began back in the days of the horse and buggy has ended with "I do's" before a minister in the current year of the automobile era.

It was 25 years ago when Eddie Catron and Minnie Mae Crow decided they'd get married. Eddie had been courting the attractive girl for some time when she accepted him.

But things happened. Their folks were sick, first one and then another, and it seemed the marriage never would come off. Throughout the quarter of a century Eddie and Minnie went steady, though.

On the eve of St. Valentine's Day they "up and did it," surprising

PINCHER-CROWS' NEST FINAL COUNT

Duke gained his victory in Pincher Creek-Crows' Nest after Enoch Williams, Labor, was eliminated. When the second choices on Williams' 1,020 ballots were distributed between the Social Credit candidate and C. J. Tompkins, Independent, Duke's original lead of 227 was cut to 211. Williams lost his deposit by 56 votes.

Liberal Government Returned to Continue Canada's War Effort—Victory Across Canada

In both the provincial and Federal elections, Social Credit support showed a decline. In the Federal election on Tuesday, Hansell secured 5,371 votes, while the three other candidates totalled 9,616 votes, or 2,245 more votes against Social Credit than for it, with 6 polls to hear from.

In the provincial election on Thursday there were 2336 votes cast for Social Credit, and a total of 3130 for Tompkins and Williams.

Coleman gave very little support to the Labor candidate, and the Pass towns still are a stronghold for Social Credit support. The rural districts show quite a drift from Aberhartism. Pincher Creek returned majorities to Tompkins for the provincial legislature and for McKenna in the Federal election.

ANGUS MORRISON ELECTED IN EDSON

Angus Morrison's election in Edson provincial constituency over Social Credit and C.C.F. candidates will be hailed with general approval by all engaged in the coal mining industry. At least there will be one man in the legislature who knows something of coal mining, having worked in Coleman mines before he was appointed secretary of District 18, United Mine Workers of America.

Interesting Comparisons

It is of interest to note the following comparison of voting in the Pass towns in the provincial election, which shows that Coleman gave the largest percentage of votes to Tompkins, viz. 34 per cent. Hillcrest showed the highest for Social Credit with 59 per cent.

Addressed to Fathers

By T. C. Elliott
Head of Fan Court, Longcross, Surrey
Special to The Christian Science Monitor
LONDON.

Not infrequently, when a father brings his son to hand him over to my care, I ask him to try to tell me what he hopes for his boy, what kind of man he wishes him to become. In the majority of cases, academic attainments come last and follow a list of moral qualities such as "uprightness, courage, manliness, endurance, perseverance," and so forth.

With quite remarkable frequency, however, a statement of this kind is followed by "Of course, I don't want him to go through as hard a time as I have had." Sometimes this is followed by an extremely interesting recital of the way in which the father has made his way in the world, and it becomes obvious that the qualities he is now wishing for his son are precisely those he himself developed in a hard, persistent struggle with adverse conditions, and which have contributed to bring him a well-merited success in his work and life.

There has been for some years an increasing tendency for parents to ask more and more of schools, and schoolmasters, for their part, have accepted responsibilities that some time ago would have been considered exclusively those of the home. A father approaching a school in the spirit outlined above might well ask himself to what extent it is fair to require the school to reproduce, in its specially "conditioned" educational atmosphere, what has come to him in the rough and tumble of the world outside.

Every good school, and every good schoolmaster, will prize and develop the moral qualities I have mentioned above, and will do his best to provide an atmosphere in which they can be developed and flourish. Nevertheless, however much the father may desire to see this training given in the school, and however much the schoolmaster may wish to give it, both parties will do well to recognize the extent to which the background of the boy's life will claim to make a determining contribution.

The march of natural science and mechanical invention has been so swift in the last thirty years that the homes from which boys and girls come today, differ widely in their standards of comfort and luxury from those in which their parents grew up. "Everybody" has an automobile, a radio set, or whatever it may be, and the struggle to meet each installment on some article already in the home is certainly not comparable in character training to the older method of "saving-up" for the long desired purchase. When the time for school comes, whether it be boarding or day school, parents are much influenced by the standards of material comfort. It is desired that everything should be "just so," and magnificent buildings and equipment are often the order of the day.

It appears that these things have come to stay, and no one would really wish to have surroundings any less perfect than intelligent planning can make them. And yet . . . ? Is it not true that much of what we call character—courage, perseverance, patience, has been gained in the struggle to win just these material comforts which seem, in certain circles at least, so much more easy to come by than they once did? It may be that the struggle for these things is just as hard as it ever was, but it remains true that nowadays, (Continued on Page Eight)

Tompkins Made Good Showing in Prov. Election

It is interesting to note that C. J. Tompkins, Independent, was accorded 2110 against E. O. Duke, 2336 Social Credit. Enoch Williams, Labor, secured 1020 votes, making a total of 3130 votes for the opposition candidates compared to 2336 for Social Credit.

With Coleman and Hillcrest returning heavy majorities for E. O. Duke, the splendid lead of Pincher Creek district for Tompkins was overcome. Had the Pass towns broken even, between Tompkins and Duke, the Independent candidate would have been elected. However, he made a very good run against the Social Credit party machine, which had been well organized.

Throughout the province as far as present returns indicate, the aggregate votes was against Social Credit, being about 42 per cent. as against 54 per cent. in 1935, while in the Dominion election there is a still larger decrease of Social Credit support.

It indicates that there is no likelihood of Social Credit gaining a foothold in other provinces, when the decline has already set in at Alberta.

I wish to extend to you my sincere thanks for the splendid support accorded me during the recent provincial election campaign.

Again thanking you for your efforts on my behalf.

Very sincerely yours,

New Home for Banff School of Fine Arts

The Banff School of Fine Arts has a new home which is as modern as the splendid work done by the school. The new auditorium, which was officially opened in January in the presence of educational and other Alberta leaders, will be the scene of the eighth annual session of the school, from August 1st to 31st.

This $50,000 building is made of native Rundle stone and is of the chateau design which harmonizes so well with the surroundings. The theatre has a seating capacity of 700 and a modern stage fitted with the finest lighting equipment and there are dressing rooms, music room, work rooms and other meeting rooms for small groups.

The building is truly a co-operative effort. The Parks Department donated two lots worth $10,000 to the Banff School Board and supplied plans and specifications free of charge; the St. Edward Society donated of $2,500 to the Department of Extension of the University of Alberta made possible the furnishing and equipment of the stage and theatre.

A Doubtful Investment

Once more the periodic Dominion elections have come and gone leaving in their wake elation for some and dissatisfaction for others; but whether the results are pleasing or otherwise, there will be almost unanimity of satisfaction that the voting has brought to a termination the political campaign speeches over the radio, and once more the great radio audience of this country is able to turn to its favorite radio programs without fear of interruption.

Campaign managers and workers for political parties must surely have serious doubts whether the money they expend in extolling one of the merits of their candidates and programs and the demerits of those who oppose them is spent wisely and well. If so, it seems likely that their misgivings are well founded, provided results of a survey made in the United States for the past two years by the School of Public and International Affairs of Princeton University, financed by the Rockefeller Foundation, are applicable in this country. There is no reason to suppose they would not be equally authentic here, since there is not a great deal of difference in temperament and taste between the radio audiences on either side of the international boundary.

One must admit, of course, that any effective medium that can be employed to acquaint voters with the affairs of their country, their province or their local community is being put to good use, for no one will gainsay the statement that the foundation on which our democratic form of government rests is an enlightened citizenry and the extent to which knowledge and information on public affairs is disseminated determines the strength of the democratic system. If people listen in great numbers to political orators over the air, radio is playing an important part in citizenship education, but if the majority of radio listeners tune them out, much time, energy and money is being wasted and political workers are living in a fool's paradise.

Apparently Exaggerated

The survey referred to showed that nine-tenths of the families in the United States have radios and have them tuned in on an average of five hours a day, but it was also found that listeners to political speeches, public affairs forum programs and cultural talks are largely confined to the more cultured section of the populace, those who are better educated and in the higher income brackets and this is admittedly the group who do the most reading.

"There is danger of exaggerating the size of the radio spellbinders' audience," declares Edwin Muller in an article commenting on the results of the survey, in a recent issue of The New Republic. "The survey," he adds, "through the facilities of Dr. George Gallup's organization, found that even President Roosevelt doesn't reach as many over the air as some might suppose."

"Though he (President Roosevelt) is admittedly our most charming and persuasive political personality on the radio to-day, his speeches, except on unusual occasions, are listened to by less than one third of the radio owners. Only 25 per cent. of the families owning sets heard his recent Jackson Day address. It is generally thought that his main support is from the lower economic levels. Yet on the lower economic level one set in four is likely to be tuned in on him; on the upper, one in two. The better-educated people, who would in general rather get ideas by reading than by listening, are twice as likely to listen to the President. And the difference is apt to be greater in the case of other serious broadcasts."

Discussing another aspect of the question the same writer observes very significantly that: "The best means of spreading knowledge is the printed word."

A Frustrated Feeling

If statements of the calibre of President Roosevelt in the United States, and Hon. Mackenzie King, Dr. R. J. Manion and J. S. Woodsworth in Canada, who must be assumed to be able to speak with authority, can only capture and hold 25 or 30 per cent. of their potential radio audience, it can be left to the imagination to guess the amount of tuning out that is done when Bob Brown, Tim Smith and Mrs. John Doe, who may have only a vague idea of what they are talking about, whose voices are unpleasant, who present their material in such a manner that they are difficult to follow and whose names are unknown to the great majority of radio set owners outside a very narrow circle, go "on the air", to proclaim the policies of the parties to which they adhere and espouse the cause of some lesser light in the political sphere.

Even a good speaker with good, interesting material is suffering under a heavy handicap when he essays to give his message over the air as compared with the writer who puts his material into print for distribution. As Mr. Muller aptly states: "Listening is easier, but you get more out of reading. . . . The tune-minded person, when he listens to a program that requires any thought, is apt to have a feeling of frustration, he isn't getting all that he should out of it."

Hard To Believe

Peaceful Settlement

International Joint Commission To Iron Out Difficulty

The International Joint Commission, made up of three Americans and three Canadians, will consider in April the conflicting claims of Canadian and North Dakota ranchers to water rights along the Souris river, which flows into North Dakota from Saskatchewan and loops back into Manitoba.

Nobody cares except the ranchers themselves, and they take calmly for granted that whatever solution the commission arrives at will be satisfactory to both sides.

The unimportance of this news is the only significant thing about it. Such a dispute could be whipped into a good size border war if it happened, say, on a German boundary or a Russian frontier—Minneapolis Star-Journal.

Planes In Ice Patrol

First Time They Have Been Used On Atlantic Coast

Due to conditions arising from the war, the Royal Canadian Air Force will co-operate with the Department of Transport in ice patrol work on the Atlantic Coast, it was announced at Ottawa.

Owing to restrictions preventing the use of radio communication between ships, the planes will maintain a constant ice survey and the information will then be relayed by land radio stations to shipping.

Never before have airplanes been used for ice patrol work on the Atlantic, though an air patrol was maintained for some time at Davis Straits collecting information when the Hudson Bay route was first opened.

The air survey of ice conditions in the Cabot Strait started two weeks before the commencement of the annual ice patrol by icebreakers. An officer from the Canadian Government icebreaker N. B. McLean will act as an observer in the ice patrol.

With the heavy movement of shipping due to the war, special precautions are being taken this year in checking the ice movements. An ice information office is being opened in Halifax which will keep friendly shipping posted. Icebreakers will work as usual in the St. Lawrence, using their radios to keep shipping advised. It is only on the Atlantic that ship radios are blacked out as a precaution against giving the location of the vessel to an enemy.

Volume Will Be Printed

Containing Speeches Made By Late Lord Tweedsmuir In Canada

Lady Tweedsmuir has arranged for the printing of a volume which will contain more than one hundred speeches made by Lord Tweedsmuir during the years he was Governor General of Canada.

These speeches were made after careful preparation. The volume likely will be printed late in the year after Lord Tweedsmuir's memoirs have been published.

After publication of the memoirs and speeches, Lord Tweedsmuir's last novel, based on some of his experiences in Canada and written around the fictional character, Sir Edward Lettice, will be published.

It is understood at Ottawa that Lady Tweedsmuir will devote much of her time at her home in Kilsfild, England, to writing, already having published a number of books, some of them for children. One of her best-known works was "The Secret of Water", dealing with the depressed mining areas of Wales. She lived in the mining areas to gather material for the book.

Punishable Offence

Smuggling Attempts In Internment Camps Hit By Regulations

It has been made a punishable offense under the War Regulations Act to smuggle letters, newspapers, clippings and other articles in or out of Internment Camps in Canada, according to an order issued recently by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, acting Secretary of State. This became necessary after various attempts were made to evade camp censorship. Contravention of this order will be punished on summary conviction by a fine not exceeding $500 or 12 months imprisonment. Conviction under indictment allows for a fine not exceeding $5,000 or five years imprisonment.

A Famous Phrase

Used By Lincoln And Traced Back To Daniel Webster

Lincoln's most famous saying, "That government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth," is said to be based on Theodore Parker's illustration, which he used in an address on May 29, 1850, when he espoused democracy as "a government of all the people, by all the people, for all the people." And Parker's use of the phrase can be traced back to Daniel Webster, who, in 1830, said in a public speech, "The people's government made for the people, made by the people, and answerable to the people."—Christian Science Monitor.

Warship For Convoys

One Heavy Craft Carrying Anti-Aircraft Guns Is Necessary

The necessity for assigning at least one battleship or cruiser to each merchant marine convoy has been one of the most important naval lessons learned by the Allies during 6½ months of war, French admiralty sources disclosed.

Only such heavy craft, it was explained, can carry the high-calibre anti-aircraft guns required for defence against high-flying bombers.

Battleships and cruisers attached to convoy service need not be modern since speed is not essential. Reduced to their practical role, they are merely "floating anti-aircraft forts".

War-time experience proved that smaller ships pitched too much in the open sea to maintain accurate fire against planes. The merchant vessels themselves could not mount heavy enough guns.

Both the U-boat and bomber threat have been reduced by the Allied practice of routing convoys through inland waterways and close to shore whenever possible, it was stated. Submarines cannot venture into shallow waters made tricky by tides and currents. Bombers attempting forays close to shore run the risk of being attacked by fast pursuit planes based along the convoy routes.

Admiralty quarters said France has built, and is building more, of the fastest torpedo boats in the world. The design of those now under construction is secret, but official sources hinted their speed and fighting power will surpass that of the V.T.B.-10, which in 1934 hung up a still unbeaten record of 55 knots. The V.T.B.-10 was one of a series of 19-ton "moquito boats" carrying two torpedo tubes and equipped with 2,000-horsepower motors.

Britain runs France a close second in the "mosquito boat" field and is fast adding to her fleet of 20-ton, two-tube craft capable of 45 knots.

Just Obedied Orders

When the Light Brigade charged, it was not up to them to reason why, they were just to do or die. When Captain J. C. Townley was told to command the R.M.S. ### To Reduce The Weight

Lighter Wheels For Motor Vehicles Gradually Coming Into Use

Cast aluminum wheels for motor vehicles are coming into growing use, partly because of increased knowledge of the use of alloys, partly because of engineers' continued efforts to cut the unnecessary weight out of automobiles.

The ancient belief that a heavy car holds the road better than a light one was long ago laughed out of the laboratories, where it was known that proper balance and proper springing were the means to stability. How to achieve them and at the same time provide the most comfortable arrangements of passenger room has been one of the major automotive problems.

Their lightness recommends aluminum wheels because they reduce unsprung weight, always a trouble to designers. The shock to the passengers and the vehicle's cargo when a wheel is thrown upward by an irregularity in the road is in direct proportion to the weight of the wheel.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Botanists say that the earliest flowers of spring are also the most ancient and primitive.

German Freighter Attacked And Sunk By British Submarine

Copenhagen. — The shell-scarred German freighter Edmund Hugo Stinnes, 2,289 tons, sank with her cargo of coal Sunday off the west coast of Denmark, where she was attacked Saturday night by a British submarine.

She was the second Nazi merchantman sunk by a British submarine since the war began. The 4,947-ton carrier Hedderheim was torpedoed last Thursday night nine miles east of Sævi (Sævi) at the entrance to the Kattegat, which leads into the Baltic sea.

Danish naval authorities immediately began an investigation to determine whether the attack on the Stinnes took place inside territorial waters. They then pointed out where the boat sank was "about three miles" offshore, but unofficial quarters pointed out it might have drifted inshore during the night.

The Stinnes, bound from Hamburg to Copenhagen, had almost reached Sævi at midnight Saturday night when she received wireless orders to return to the Danish port of Esbjerg, presumably because British submarines were believed nearby.

The Stinnes turned about and was heading for Esbjerg when a warning shot whistled across her bows off Torminde.

Crew members claimed the shot was fired by a British submarine, which appeared between the ship and coast. When the Stinnes failed to stop immediately three more shots were fired. One hit the hull.

Residents of Torminde said they heard four shots and then an explosion.

Half an hour later two lifeboats from the Stinnes, one bearing 13 seamen and the other seven, landed on the beach. The sailors claimed their captain had been taken prisoner aboard the submarine.

The second officer, suffering from a flesh wound in the arm, and the purser, who lost three fingers while attempting to lower a lifeboat, were sent to hospital.

Berlin. — The German news agency claimed the 2,189-ton German steamship Edmund Hugo Stinnes was attacked Saturday night by a British submarine in Danish territorial waters and sunk by gunfire before the crew had time to take to the lifeboats.

The agency said the captain of the vessel was "abducted" by the submarine and that two members of the crew were injured. The crew was reported rescued and under the care of German consular officials in Denmark.

Franco-British Postal Stamp

London. — Something new in philatelic prizes will appear soon when France and Greater Britain issue a joint Franco-British postal stamp. Postmaster-General C. C. Tryon and the French minister of communications, Jules Julien, agreed on issuing such a stamp to symbolize Allied solidarity.

Britain Sends Reply To Italy's Protest On Economic Warfare

London. — In a 10-page reply to Italy's protest of March 3 against the Allied economic warfare, the British government reasserted its determination to use every legal weapon against Germany — "an enemy who has on repeated occasions flagrantly disregarded the principles of international law and even the common precepts of humanity."

The problem which prompted the Italian protest — the Allied decision to seize German coal aboard Italian ships — has since been amicably settled, but the government took advantage of the occasion to give a complete outline of its position on economic warfare and the obligations of neutrals.

The British note pointed out Germany would have a marked advantage if it were left free "to pursue with impunity practices in total disregard of international law and moral principles," while the Allies were expected at all times scrupulously to observe these principles.

"The British government has no intention of imitating the barbarous methods of its opponents, from which

Buildings Standardized

Designs Have Been Prepared For Air

Standardization of buildings

Ottawa. — Standardization of buildings and hangars at schools being established under the British Commonwealth air training plan was announced by the national defence department.

Forty standard designs have been prepared by the engineer services branch of the Canadian militia and the works and building divisions of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

Suggestions by British firms that standard portable steel hangars be constructed were discarded in favor of Canadian designs and materials when it was found cost of important steel sections would be high.

Of timber construction, hangars will have a span of 112 feet and a depth of 126 feet. The connector-type truss will be employed, providing for rapid erection and also for easy removal to other sites. The permanent feature will be the paved floor. All wooden sections will be given a chemical treatment making them fireproof.

Cannot Stop Shipments

Britain Unable To Control Trade

Through Black Sea To Germany

London. — The government informed the House of Commons it is unable to prevent shipments of oil through the Black Sea to Germany.

Ronald Cross, minister of economic warfare, in reply to a question, said under the Montreux convention, belligerent warships are unable to pass through the Straits of Bosphorus to the Black Sea to establish contraband control.

This pact, signed in 1936, provided that the entrances to the Black Sea be closed to warships of belligerent nations unless they are serving under League of Nations mandate or helping a victim of aggression under a mutual assistance pact concluded within the framework of the league and to which Turkey is a party.

Britain and France have a pact of the type with Turkey signed last year.

Time Not Opportune

Nazi Conquest Of Poland Is Not For

League Yet

London. — The British government does not consider it opportune at this stage to refer the questions of the German conquest of Poland to the League of Nations' Council, Richard Butler, foreign under-secretary, told the House of Commons.

His statement was in reply to a question from Geoffrey Mander, opposition Liberal, whether the government intended to submit this issue to the council so that the covenant regarding the use of force might be applied under article 17 providing for sanctions against non-members of the league who resort to war.

Britain Sends Reply To Italy's Protest On Economic Warfare

London. — In a 10-page reply to Italy's protest of March 3 against the Allied economic warfare, the British government reasserted its determination to use every legal weapon against Germany — "an enemy who has on repeated occasions flagrantly disregarded the principles of international law and even the common precepts of humanity."

The problem which prompted the Italian protest — the Allied decision to seize German coal aboard Italian ships — has since been amicably settled, but the government took advantage of the occasion to give a complete outline of its position on economic warfare and the obligations of neutrals.

The British note pointed out Germany would have a marked advantage if it were left free "to pursue with impunity practices in total disregard of international law and moral principles," while the Allies were expected at all times scrupulously to observe these principles.

"The British government has no intention of imitating the barbarous methods of its opponents, from which Italian ships and nationals have suffered in common with those of other neutral powers," the note said.

"They have therefore at all times sought to ensure that their action conformed to the accepted principles under which they exercised their belligerent rights. But they are unable to accept the disabilities that would result from their being to refrain from all full exercise of their rights."

Rome. — Premier Mussolini talked defence measures with his chief of staff, Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, as informed Fascist quarters expressed belief that the coming of spring would see Germany pressing action on the war fronts.

The government received without comment the British reply to Italy's protest of March 3 against the Allied sea blockade of Germany, as it hit Italian imports of German coal.

Authoritative Rome quarters described Mussolini's conference with Graziani, who is believed to be in direct command of Italy's northern frontier, as "very important" but declined to link it directly with the conversation with Adolf Hitler at Brennero recently.

Issues At Stake

No Threat To Neutrals If Allies Win

The War

Toronto. — Hon. James H. R. Cromwell, United States minister to Canada, in an address here said that if the Allies win the war he could see "no threat to the well being, to the peace, or to the social and economic order of the neutral democracies, be they large or small."

As to the outlook should Germany triumph, he asked what kind of rule was being applied in countries which had been victims of the Nazi Lebensraum (living room) plan of extension. "Did the Austrians, Czechoslovaks or the Poles have a voice in the determination of their present form of government?"

Speaking before a joint meeting of the Canadian Club and the Empire Club, Mr. Cromwell said he was at a loss to understand how any intelligent citizen of any neutral democracy could state with conviction that he has no interest in the outcome of the war, or that there are no issues at stake which can affect him.

As an economist, Mr. Cromwell said the present conflict appeared to him "not only as a clash between rival political concepts, but also as a clash between rival and totally different economic systems of which the forms of government are but the outward manifestations."

"Do not let yourselves be deceived by the frequently proffered description of the democratic-capitalistic system as one which is old and outworn, ready for the scrap heap, and to be superseded by some autocratic ideology. For it is the latter which has misruled and misgoverned the world from time immemorial."

"It was not until the industrial revolution took place early in the 19th century that true democracy on a broad basis of universal suffrage and individual freedom, as we conceive it on this continent, became possible. To me, capitalism and democracy are as closely united as Siamese twins—one cannot live without the other."

Aiding The Empire

Newfoundland Raises A Force Of

5,000 Men

St. John's, Nfld. — Newfoundland has raised more than 5,000 men for service of the empire in the war, Justice Commissioner Emerson disclosed here.

Two thousand foresters and 625 men required by the British admiralty for special service already have crossed the Atlantic, he said, while an additional 1,000 men for general service and 670 for the Royal artillery had enrolled.

Besides these 822 applications had been received in response to a call for mercantile seamen. Applications also were being received for service in the Royal Air Force and a proclamation calling for enlistments in this branch was to be issued shortly. Volunteers for the general naval service exceeded the number asked for, and the extra men were being held in reserve while awaiting another call.

Halifax Tests Alarm

Halifax. — Halifax has held its first practice blackout in four and a half months. On a signal from 40 air raid precautions sirens, street lights went off and other lights throughout the city were obscured for 15 minutes. Purpose of the blackout was to test the new alarm sounding system.

IN PENSIVE MOOD

Premier Neville Chamberlain is caught in pensive mood as he pores over voluminous reports on Britain's progress in the current battle with the Nazis.

I.R.A. Demonstration

Police Patrols Are Strengthened

Throughout Northern Ireland

Belfast, Northern Ireland. — Police patrols were strengthened throughout Northern Ireland after the outlawed Irish Republican army defied a government ban against Easter week demonstrations earlier in the day and staged a meeting here.

Four hundred members of the organization, some of them wearing Sam Brown belts with revolvers strapped to their legs, marched through the streets of Belfast to the home of the late Joseph McKelvey, I.R.A. leader executed by the Irish Free State government in 1922.

A brief meeting was held in front of McKelvey's home, with "scouts" maintaining a watch in surrounding streets to warn the demonstrators if police patrols were approaching.

Highlight of the meeting was the reading of messages from the "general headquarters of the Irish Republican army in Dublin" and from "the Northern Ireland command."

The messages denounced the execution of Peter Barnes and James Richards at Birmingham for their part in the Coventry explosion of last August in which five people were killed.

Before dispersing, the men participating in the meeting knelt in prayer in the street.

Seize Opium Cargo

Gibraltar. — A $1,000,000 opium cargo was part of the prize when the German freighter Uhenfels was captured off the African coast last November, it was announced as the ship arrived here for examination in drydock. Seizure of the 7,063-ton ship, which a prize crew first took to Freetown, Sierra Leone, on the West African coast, was announced in London Nov. 8.

Gets Fine And Jail Term

Shoreham, Sussex, England. — Poaschal Koettgen, a Belgian architect, was fined $222 and sentenced to a month in jail for attempting to convey letters out of the country by means other than the postal service.

New French Cabinet Decides To Carry On And Prosecute War

Paris. — Premier Paul Reynaud's cabinet, pledged to wage "total war" against Germany, decided to carry on despite a slim vote of confidence in the chamber of deputies.

The new premier, after telling the chamber that his government would "arouse, assemble and direct all French energies to fight and conquer" was given a 268 to 156 vote of confidence, while 111 deputies abstained from voting.

The thin margin foreshadowed a possible new cabinet crisis in the near future. The resigned premier, Edouard Daladier, quit after suffering a "moral defeat" in the chamber. His vote was 239 to one with 303 members abstaining.

Chief criticism from rightist deputies was that the cabinet was a "patchwork job" and that inclusion of Socialist members might make the government less dangerous to be left.

Reynaud will have a breathing spell until April 2 since parliament will be in recess until that date.

The cabinet's decision to risk its future on the narrow balance was arrived at during a special session held immediately after the vote. It was foreshadowed in the chamber by Reynaud's assertion that "we will hold fast, with teeth clenched, because we are animated by the will to fight and the certainty of victory."

The following communique was issued after the meeting: "The council of ministers met at the finance ministry, M. Reynaud presiding. It examined the situation resulting from the chamber vote. All the ministers assured the premier of their loyal co-operation. In these circumstances, the government leader decided that, in the present grave situation, it was the duty of the cabinet, which had obtained an absolute majority in the chamber vote, to remain at its post.

The senate, meeting during the chamber debate, adjourned until April 9 after hearing the brief ministerial statement of policy read by Vice-Premier Camille Chautemps.

The new cabinet's statement of policy made no reference to French foreign policy beyond declaring that Germany, described as "powerful, organized, resolute," was helped by "the Soviet betrayal." Premier Reynaud subsequently referred the chamber to the foreign policy statement by former Premier Daladier in secret session earlier this week and added: "Our only rule in foreign policy is to reply to friendship with friendship and hostility with hostility."

The premier, both in his cabinet's formal statement of policy and in the subsequent debate, laid the greatest emphasis on the urgency of prosecuting the war until victory. "France is engaged in a total war," the policy statement said at the outset. "An enemy, powerful, organized, resolute, is concentrating for the triumph over all human activities, and transforming them into tools of war."

Reynaud told the house that the former Radical-Socialist premier, Daladier, had assured him of support before he undertook formation of a new government.

Finns Leave Hanko Area

Every Means Of Transportation Has

Been Pressed Into Service

Hanko, Finland. — This once-thriving city of 8,000, formerly known as Finland's "Gibraltar of the Baltic," rapidly is becoming a ghost town as its Finnish residents flee to new homes with all the goods they can carry before the Russians come.

Trains, buses and even bicycles are being pressed into service in the town and for the whole length of the Hanko peninsula. Every resident, authorities said, is bent on one purpose—getting his belongings safely across the new frontier before the Red army takes possession under the terms of the Moscow peace treaty.

Hanko was leased by the Russians for 30 years and will be used as a military base.

Protest From Denmark

Say Bombs Were Dropped Along The

Danish Coast

Copenhagen, Denmark. — The Danish government instructed its minister in London to protest against violation of Danish territory by British planes which bombed the German island of Sylt.

Ten bombs were dropped along the Danish coast and a mixed commission of Danish military and technical experts conducted an investigation to determine the cause of the planes which dropped them.

Hitler Fails

Report Says Mussolini Would Not

Scrap Balkan Policy

Paris. — An authoritative source said Adolf Hitler failed during his meeting with Premier Mussolini to induce the Italian leader to scrap the Balkan policy which Rome has pursued since war began.

This source said Hitler tried to get his axis partner to join Germany and Russia in a division of political influence in southeastern Europe, but it does not seem to continue the policy he adopted at the outbreak of the war, declined to commit himself.

Reports reaching here from competent sources said neutral capitals stated the German plans called for complete exclusion of British and French influence in the Balkan zone. The gloomy appearance of Hitler after the meeting—in contrast with the smiling of the French premier—brought the optimistic attitude of high Fascist quarters in Rome, were interpreted here as confirmation that Mussolini returned from the meeting with his freedom of action unimpaired.

Hero Of Boer War

London. — Lt.-Gen. Sir Aylmer

Hunter-Weston was killed in a fall from the tower of his Scottish home overlooking the Firth of Clyde. Sir Aylmer, 76, served at the Dardanelles and in a Royal Air Force war and was a hero of the Boer war.

British Troops In Savage Skirmish Put The Enemy To Rout

With the British Expeditionary Force in France—British troops took revenge for the Nazi surprise raid on one of their Maginot line outposts two weeks ago. In a savage skirmish five Germans were killed and one was taken prisoner.

The Britons suffered no casualties in their operation which occurred close to the scene of the March 5 clash, the first large-scale encounter between British and German troops on the Western Front.

The new encounter was announced in a French communique, which said: "Activity by reconnaissance elements. On the front held by British troops there was an encounter of patrols which turned entirely to the advantage of our Allies."

The British command also announced the clash, stating a British patrol had "successfully attacked" a German patrol during the night and routed it after a "violent" fight.

The enemy left five dead on the field and one was taken prisoner by the British, it was stated.

The German surprise raid on March 5 was against a British outpost east of the Moselle river and close to the Luxembourg border. Two Britons were killed and one was wounded.

General Viscount Gort, commander-in-chief of the British forces in the field, flew to the scene of the March 5 air-drome to congratulate personally pilots and crews of aircraft which have been carrying out reconnaissance flights over the German west-wall.

The commander-in-chief flew from the airfield close to general headquarters in a small, fast monoplane piloted by Air Vice-Marshal C. B. M. Blount, commanding the air component of British forces in France. Viscount Gort, who is a qualified pilot, followed the route taken by the plane with the help of a map spread out in front of him. Members of his staff followed in a larger plane.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Alberta's Verdict Causes Us to Meditate

IT is beyond comprehension how some people believe that money can be created by simply printing money tickets. They point to the bank bills in circulation, yet overlook that these pieces of paper represent something that has been produced by you and I in work or services of various kinds. Were it possible to create money by simply printing bank notes, nobody would ever go broke, either individuals or banks.

THIS type of reasoning by would-be leaders of the people has done a lot harm, and has undermined the morale of many weak enough mentally to believe it. It is of little use trying to emphasize the fallacy of such a belief, for only hard bitter experience will bring home the truth.

ALBERTA will presumably for another few years have experience of this false teaching, for the majority has so decided. There is little those opposed to such theories can do except to adhere to sound principles and work towards the day when enlightenment will dawn on those who eventually will find that the mirage of glowing promises has entirely faded. Till then, the shadow instead of the substance will have to suffice.

SO many fail to make headway throughout life that instead of doing some heart-searching to find the real cause, are ever ready to blame it on the system. Every normal man has his own set of brains and physical power to determine his course through life, and if some use their powers to advantage in honest endeavor to progress, instead of being envious as is so often the case, others should try and do likewise. But blaming the system is an alibi that all too many are ready to use as an excuse, and scheming politicians in order to catch the popular vote of the masses play up on this theme. One cannot compel people to think for themselves. It is too much of an effort. That's why so many are misled by these shrewd enough to beguile the innocent. Because we express our opinion, those who disagree will remark that we are a friend of the capitalist system.

TO admit the truth, every man who tries to get ahead and progress above the environment into which he was born, even if he only acquires a home and a small business concern to try and make himself in a measure independent, is a capitalist in his own right. He did not become a friend of the capitalist system simply by using his time and the money he earned to improve his own station in life. Just a little study should convince those who consider themselves victims of the "system," that there are many more reasons than the so-called capitalist system.

LOCALLY, one can point to the mines for many years, some for half or more of their lifetime. Some have acquired homes, have sent their sons and daughters to university, yet had no better advantages than the average work. By thrift and good home management they have done this, and no system in the world has prevented them from getting ahead and giving to their children better educational facilities than they (the parents) were able to enjoy. Self-analysis would reveal that we are all too prone to blame others when we should look a little closer to home.

THESE notes and comments are written with a view to interest our readers, and we do not claim any value in them beyond the fact that it is part of our duty as a newspaper worker to make some reference to matters that closely concern all of us. People have occasionally told us that they read this column, and one chap was so frank as to remark that he didn't agree with a darned word we said in relation to provincial politics, but he grabbed the paper every week it came into the home just to see what we had to say. It is therefore some gratification to know that it is read, for after all, whether people agree or not, we have always taken the stand that a newspaper without an opinion on matters of public concern is a spineless, jellyfish medium trying to appear all things to all men. We may be, to use a slang term, "all wet" in the eyes of those whose opinions do not click with ours, but it has been our experience that if you take a stand for a principle, you are bound to have enemies, as well as friends. Fortunately no one has placed a keg of gunpowder under the editorial chair, so we'll carry on, no matter who is in power at Edmonton and Ottawa. We'll all have to work just as hard as ever, we can't kid ourselves out of that.

THERE called on us over the Easter holidays a veteran of the old R.C.M.P., who is now over 70 years, and being a printer, by early apprenticeship in Eastern Canada, talk veered to "shop." He mentioned that he had been approached by a would-be purchaser to sell his small print-shop in his home town, but had decided against it, telling the party that he now looked on his work as his hobby. This old-time policeman-printer might well sit back and enjoy the small comfort that an old-age pension combined with his savings might provide, but he still takes pride in his work and would rather keep at it than let the rest of his life just drift away. Some of his old time stories which have been published in southern Alberta newspapers show a virile mind which retains a storehouse of interesting reminiscences, and moreover he can work with his hands and turn out a good printing job. He comes here to visit his son and daughter-in-law, but a visit to Coleman wouldn't be complete unless he came round to the office to sniff printer's ink. He's one of the type who would rather die with his boots on than in a soft bed. In case you do not know him, and your curiosity has been aroused, his name is Tom Clarke of Macleod, Commercial Printer.

Two ballots cast in Tuesday's election in a Coleman poll, instead of the cross being placed against a candidate's name, bore the word "Peace." Evidently the voters were not in favor of the war, and took this way to express their view.

In every branch of endeavor, standards which are as standards or models are necessary. In the clothing field, EATON'S has long been a pioneer in developing standards that boys of the same age are often different in size, our Research Bureau took the measurements of hundreds of boys and developed a standard size chart. So, too, all the men's and women's garments we sell measure up to our own standard size charts based on the average figures of thousands of our customers. With the changing years the average figure in the West tends to change and part of our work is constantly to bring our charts in line with the changes. This endless watchfulness, this emphasis on standards is a part of the satisfaction that customers get in the fit of their clothes when they order from EATON'S.

IN EARLY BRITAIN

We have traced the art of brewing from the Greeks of 500 B.C. up to Ancient Rome. The Roman soldiers introduced it to early Britons. Previous to their invasion the usual drinks of the early Britons were water, milk and mead (an intoxicating drink made from honey). Beer being suitable to the climate, and so easily made, by an agricultural people with plenty of corn, it was gladly welcomed and soon became the national beverage.

Rich old Farmer Brown sadly gazed around the Sunday dinner table at his six sons and their respective wives. Finally he said: "I don't see any grandchildren around this table. I'll give ten thousand dollars to the first one of you who presents me with a grandchild. We will now say Grace." And when he raised his head again, he and grandma were the only ones at the table.

Weddings*HAYSOM—HALLIWELL

On Easter Monday at 10 a.m., in St. Alban's church, Alwyn Griffiths Haysom, son of Mr. W. H. Haysom and the late Mrs. Haysom, and Wilma Dorothy Halliwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Halliwell, were married by the Rev. John Hague, rector.

The bride, attired in a rosewood dress with blue accessories, had as her bridesmaid her younger sister, Audrey, who was costumed in teal blue. The bride carried Talisman roses and her attendant carried American Beauty roses and sweet peas. A friend of the bridegroom, Frank Fraser, was best man.

Mrs. M. Clifford played the Wedding March as the bridal party entered the church. Miss Peggy McDonald sang "Because" while the register was being signed.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, only the immediate relatives of the families being present. The health of the bride was proposed by Rev. J. R. Hague, and responded to by the bridegroom. During the afternoon they left for Calgary and Edmonton, to make a brief visit with friends of university days before settling down in their home in Coleman.

MITCHELL—BURTNIK

The marriage took place in St. Alban's church on Monday, March 25th, at 11 a.m., of Miss Pearl Burntik, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Burntik, of Coleman, to Jack Mitchell, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mitchell, of Coleman. Attendants were Miss Ethel Burntik, sister of the bride, and Mr. Joe Chala, of Blairmore. Rev. J. R. Hague conducted the wedding ceremony.

The bride, entering the church with her father, looked beautiful in her wedding gown of white net over tulle and white accessories and white chapel veil. She carried a bouquet of roses and lilies. The bridesmaid wore a pink satin gown, with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of pink and red carnations.

Mrs. William Jackson played the Wedding March upon the entrance of the bride into the church, and the old favorite, "I Love You Truly," during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony the bridal party went to the home of the bride's parents on Main street where 25 guests sat down to a wedding breakfast.

The happy couple are honeymooning for a week at Calgary and Edmonton. They will make their home here, the groom being employed at International mine.

THE UNITED CHURCH

Good Friday and Easter services the United church were well attended. On Friday evening at a quiet and impressive service ten new members were admitted into communicant fellowship with the congregation.

On Sunday morning the church was well filled. The choir sang two Easter anthems. 68 remained for the Communion. This was a larger number than for several years. Lilies, roses, tulips and daffodils were used for decoration.

There was a much better attendance at the evening service than for some time.

The 34th anniversary of the opening of the church buildings will be celebrated April 28th and 29th. Detailed announcements will be made later. All regular services are still being held.

400 Canadian Women Prepare For War Service

General Motors began a course ten weeks ago to teach women to make emergency repairs and to fit themselves for an active role in the war. 400 Canadian girls and women are undergoing training in the Volunteer Auxiliary Drivers Corps, under direction of General Motors of Canada and its dealers.

The local dealer is Crows Nest Pass Motors, Blairmore, of which Mr. L. L. Morgan is proprietor.

Addressed to Fathers

even in modest homes, they are more profuse both in number and variety.

This being so, they often seem such an essential part of things that boys or girls are not prepared to begin at the bottom of the ladder when they leave school, because to begin thus means sacrificing what they have become accustomed to. While a society keeps its fluidity and sense to adventure, the danger of this situation may be slight; but as it becomes more static the danger increases.

A problem such as this requires for its solution the combined efforts of both home and school, and obviously calls for a new orientation away from the field of mere personal success towards that of unselfish service and higher spiritual values.
